Daniel E. Shearouse Elected to the Office of Vice President of the National Conference of Appellate Court Clerks

Daniel E. Shearouse, Clerk of Court of the Supreme Court of South Carolina, was elected to the Office of Vice President of the National Conference of Appellate Court Clerks at the organization's recent annual meeting in Denver, Colorado.

A graduate of Clemson University and the University of South Carolina School of Law, Mr. Shearouse was hired as a staff attorney for the Supreme Court of South Carolina in 1983 after having served three years on active duty in the Judge Advocate General's Corps of the United States Army. In 1985, he was appointed as the Chief Staff Attorney for the Supreme Court of South Carolina. He served in that capacity until he was appointed as the Clerk of the Supreme Court of South Carolina in 1998. Prior to his election as Vice President of the NCACC, Mr. Shearouse served on various NCACC committees, including the executive committee, site selection committee, by-laws committee, scholarship committee, finance and investment committee, and hosted the organization's 2012 annual conference in Charleston, South Carolina.

The National Conference of Appellate Court Clerks was established in 1973 with the objectives of improving the skills and knowledge of its members, promoting effective court administration, providing a forum for the exchange of ideas, and maintaining facilities for the dissemination of information concerning appellate court operations. Its membership is comprised of state, federal, and military appellate and Supreme Court clerks from the
